Issue 26: Guide to Ensure Gender-Responsive Action in Eliminating Plastic Pollution

Dear all,

We hope this email finds you well.

In this newsletter issue we bring you the "Guide to Ensure Gender-Responsive Action in Eliminating Plastic Pollution". Gender equality is not only a fundamental human right but also crucial for sustainable development, particularly in environmental protection. Women play pivotal roles in entrepreneurship, resource management, waste disposal, and unpaid household labor, making policies supporting women's rights and livelihoods complementary to efforts for transitioning to a more sustainable and circular plastics economy. The Global Plastic Action Partnership (GPAP) has developed guidance to help actors in the plastics value chain and plastic pollution action community adopt a gender-sensitive approach in their work. This guidance outlines principles for gender mainstreaming in the sector and provides detailed instructions tailored to various stakeholders, including policymakers, industry leaders, innovators, civil society organizations, and academia.

We invite you to look at the full document, hoping it will be helpful for your research process.

Best regards

Mariasole and Camilla
